WHO KILLED WALSH?

A STATEMENT BY CAPTAIN WILLIAMS. THE BULLET FROM IRVING'S PISTOL NOT BEFORE

THE CORONER-WHAT THE JURYMEN SAY. A reporter of THE TRIBUNE called upon some of the jurors in the Waish-Irving shooting case yesterday to ascertain how they came to return a verdict which was in direct opposition to certain alleged facts. A. S. Marvin, of the well-known safe firm, whose offices are at No. 265 Broadway, said that he was one of the three who were for holding Porter as an accessory, but that they were overruled by the others. There was no one to represent the State, there was not proper testimony about the bullets, and there seemed to be a confusion about the number of chambers emptied in Irving's pistol. The statement of Detective Sergeant Hickey that Porter's pistol was cold had also an effect upon his mind.

Search was then made for another jurer. Harris B. Singhnor, of No. 309 Broadway, but the reporter was unable to find any such person. L. A. Emanuel, a lawyer, said that he had been in that house for eight years, and he had never heard of any such person.

Gustave S. Friedberger, who has a large cigar store at No. 262 Broadway, said: "I believe Porter was never in the room according to the evidence. store at No. 262 Broadway, said: "I believe Porter was never in the room, according to the evidence, but that he stayed in the hall. The bullet found in Walsh's heart did not fit Porter's pistol. I looked on whilst one of the jurors tried the bullets and pistols. It did fit Irving's pistol, and I think it came from that pistol to Walsh's heart. I came to the conclusion that Irving and Walsh shot each other."

Had you heard that Porter had been looking for

"Had you heard that Porter had been looking for Walsh to kill him?"
"No, certainly not. I would have held Porter as an accessory any way, if I had known of that bad blood between the men."
David Hirsh, of No. 383 Broadway a wholesale dealer in umbrellas, said that he was one of the three who wanted to hold Porter as an accessary, but was overruled by the others. He did not know how the bullets and pistols came into the jury room, nor what precantions had been taken against any tampering with them. One of the jury room, nor what precantions had been taken against any tampering with them. One of the jury room, hor what precantions had been taken against any tampering with them. One of the jury room, hor by living."

Horatic Forbes and John Roman, the foremen of the jury, were found at No. 525 Broadway. The latter said: "Before we left the Coroner's room to go into the jury room, the Coroner put into my hands two envelopes containing the fatst bullets. He gave the pistols to another juryman, but I do not know to which one. There were two bullets in one envelope which were taken from Irving's body, one from his head, the other from his shoulder. In the other envelope was the bullet found in Walsh's heart. Mr. Forbes examined them bullets in one envelope which were taken from Irving's body, one from his head, the other from his shoulder. In the other envelope was the bullet found in Walsh's heart. Mr. Forbes examined them and reported that the light bullet which was not flattened fitted Irving's pistol. That satisfied me."

Mr. Forbes said: "The two bullets found in Irving's body were flattened and of course would not go into any chamber. I judged from the weight that they belonged to Walsh's pistol, which was the heaviest. The other bullet was not flattened. It was what I should call a spiral bullet and was unchanged except that the base was a little expanded. I tried it with the chamber of Irving's pistol, and it fitted well enough except that it would not quite go in on account of the enlargement of the end. That satisfied me that Walsh was killed by Irving, but I wanted to hold Porter as an accessory, because I believed that he came in company with Irving, and probably knew what the latter meant to do."

Captain Williams said: "Mr. Forbes mnast have been mistaken. Irving, when he came into Draper's, fired at Walsh, who was standing in front of the bar, and the bullet grazed his hand and then went into a plank, where it was found by the police. Only one chamber of Irving's revolver was emptied. Walsh retreated to the billiard-room, drawing his pistol as he went. He entered the room by a side door next to a refrigerator. Walsh retreated to the billiard-room, drawing his pistol as he went. He entered the room by a side door next to a refrigerator. Irving entered the billiard-room by the door in the centre. A bullet struck him in the carp, enetrating to the brain. Walsh fired again rapidly and the second bullet went into Irving's shoulder and he fell dead at the foot of the billiard table, his pistol dropping from his hand. As the coroner never had in his possession the one bullet fired from fiving's pistol, it follows that the bullet found in Walsh's heart must have been fired from another weapon. The Grand Jury met and requested District-Attorney McKeon fully to investigate the matter. A messenger was sent the Coroner's office for the papers and pistols in the case, but they were not fortheoming. Assistant District-Attôrney Allen tried with better result. Mr. Allen exclaimed as he left the room: "There is something loose and rotten in this office and has been for a year past. I have learned by private evidence that Piper Burns was shot, and that his death was not caused by a fall as found by the Coroner's fury."

Mr. McKeon consulted with Captain Williams.

was shot, and that his death was not caused by a fall as found by the Coroner's jury."

Mr. McKeon consulted with Captain Williams, but he refused to say what his action would be. There is a difference of opinion as to the right of the Coroner to discharge from custody. The Code seems to require that there shall be a hearing before a police magistrate, while on the part of the Coroner it is asserted that the Consolidation Act passed since the passage of the Code re-enacts the sections of the Revised Statutes relating to the duties of Coroners.

THE SUICIDE OF MR. GWINNER. There was much discussion among business men cesterday as to the causes which led Henry W. Gwinner, president of the Hoole Manufacturing and the National Railroad Publication Companies, to commit suicide on Friday evening.

Emil B. Wishaar, who for nearly lifteen years has held the position of assistant to Mr. Gwinner, said heid the position of assistant to Mr. ownier, said to a TRIBUNE reporter: "I suppose no man in the world is so well acquainted with the financial and business interests of the deceased man as myself. Although I have thought over the matter a great deal I can discover no cause for this rash act. He had an income of $10,000 a year, but he kept his expenses far below that figure. An examination of his books shows that his official position was judjumed by any breath of a year, but he kept his expenses far below that figure. An examination of his books shows that his official position was undimmed by any breath of suspicion. That the act was unpremeditated appears to be proven by his conduct during the early part of the day. He sent a card-table to his home, No. 40 East Twelfth-st., in the afternoon, after having made arrangements for a cribbage party that evening. Again, in discussing an important matter with me, he said that he would give his decision in regard to it the following morning. The only way that I can explain his death is that he was seized with a sudden insane inpulse to take his own life, which he was not able to resist. His wife is nearly distracted with grief."

Crowds of people passed through the club-room of the Railroad Men's Association, in which the body lay, and looked upon the calm face of the dead man. A special car attached to the 5 o'clock train on the Pennsylvania Railroad on Monday morning will take the body to Philadelphia. A large number of relatives and friends will follow later. The funeral will take place at the home of Assistant-Controller Riebenach, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, No. 3,701 Powelton-ave., West Philadelphia, at 1 p. m. The burial services at Woodland Cemetery will be performed with Masonic rites, Mr. Gwinner having been a member of Meridian Lodge, of Philadelphia.

Coroner Merkle investigated the matter and decided that the cause of the suicide was unknown.

A DISSIPATED DOCTOR TAKES HIS LIFE.

Walter L. Foley, a physician, age thirty-two, died at Bellevue Hospital yesterday afternoon from the effects of a narcotic poison which he had taken with the intention of ending his life. He was graduated from the Bellevue Medical College about six years ago. While still a student in the college he became a drunkard, and when he attempted to make a living by his profession he failed on account of his dissipation. His mother sent him to the Inebriate Asylum at Fort Hamilton, and afterward to the asylum on Ward's Island, but his habits grew worse instead of better. For a time Dr. Foley boarded at No. 317 East Fourteenth-st., where his mother and sister now live, but his presence there became intollerable and his mother paid for his board at No. 309 East Twenty-fifth-st. She refused, some weeks ago, to support him longer, and Mrs. Montague, his landlady, turned him away. He went to the boarding house yesterday and asked to see Mrs. Montague, who was sick in bed. When a servant admitted him he told Mrs. Montague that he had taken poison and had come to bid her farewell. He begged her permission to die in her house. Policemen were summoned, but Dr. Foley became insensible before they could remove him to the hospital. His last words were: "Give my love to Miss Aubrey." Mrs. Montague said that Miss Aubrey was the daughter of a tailor living at No. 19 Sydam-st., Brooklyn. Dr. Foley had courted her without success. His sister was at his bedside in the hospital when he died but his mother was in Brooklyn visiting an acquaintance. The police did not know were Dr. Foley had been living recently. A SUPERINTENDENT OF MARKETS.

A SUPERINTENDENT OF MARKETS.

Colonel Thomas F, DeVoe, Chief of the Bureau for the Collection of City Revenue, and Superintendent of Markets, has sent to Controller Grant a letter resigning his position. The Bureau of Markets and that for the Collection of City Revenue were consolidated by Controller Campbell soon after he entered upon the duties of his office. Colonel DeVoe, who had had a longer experience in the markets, was appointed to the head of the new bureau. In his letter of resignation he said that he had found the duties of the consolidated bureau more than he could properly attend to. There were many accounts in arrears, amounting in the aggregate to more than $600,000. Most of these have been outlawed and a good portion are in dispute. gate to more than $600,000. Most of these have been outlawed and a good portion are in dispute. They consist of dues by city railroad lines for license fees, dues for dock rents, claims for ferry companies, bolders of market stands, etc. A considerable portion are now awaiting the slow movements of the courts. Since Colonel DeVoc has been in office there has been little accumulation of dues; but not much progress has been made in collecting the old accounts.

Controller Grant accepted Colonel De Voe's resigm, and at once created the office of Superinat of Markets and appointed Colonel DeVoe at position, with the same salary he has hitherto had—$2,750 per annum. Francis Tomes was then appointed Collector of City Revenue and Superintendent of Markets, with a salary of $3,500 per annum. Mr. Tomes was for many years the head of the firm of Francis Tomes & Sons, importers of cutlery and fancy goods, in Maiden-lane. He has had a good deal of experience in real-estate and general business methods.

Controller Grant said that he had made these changes because he deemed it necessary for the best interests of the city. There was enough business in the markets for one man to overlook, and the collection of city revenue was as much as one man could attend to. He was glad to retain the services of Colonel DeVoe, who had proven himself a faithful and capable official. He proposed to see what could be done in the way of collecting the amounts due the city. He feared, however, that a considerable proportion was outlawed. There were claims which it was alleged would offset those of the city in some of the other cases. These would have to be passed on by the courts. ssed on by the courts.

THE NATIONAL HORSE SHOW.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN IN READINGSS FOR THE EXHIBITION-A CHAT WITH MISS MULLISIL EXHIBITION—A CHAT WITH MISS MELLISH.

Twenty-five young men crowded the committee room of the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden yesterday, and twenty-five jackets with striped yellow and black bodies and black sleeves, and twenty-five black and yellow peaked caps were handed out and fitted by an old man who had spectacles and a gray mustache. The young men were the assistants and the jackets and caps were their uniforms, to be denned on Monday morning when the show opens at half-past 9 o'clock. Inside the building the preparations are nearly completed and the Garden presents a strangely altered appearance. The central portion, encircled by the iron pillars which support the roof, is occupied by the exercising and display ring, which is covered to a depth of several feet with tan bark. In the middle is a deep trench which will eventually be filled with water and form the water jump over which Miss Mellish, the Engiress of the strength of the strength of the butters. The latter butters will take the hunters. The latter ider, and the clever country woman of the Empres of Austria will take the hunters. The latter young woman was leaning against the railing yesterday, contemplating the track with a pensive expression. She told a TRIBUNE reporter that she hoped to make a good impression in America, for she had ridden in every European capital since she was "so high," holding a shapely hand some fourteen inches from the floor. Superintendent Lincoln was rushing wildly about, seeing that the last touches were given to the artistic decorations, which consist of red, white and blue streamers, festooned from pillars to roof, and gayly blazoned shields bearing the arms of all nations. of Austria will take the hunters. On the north side of the Garden is a temporary wooden structure which reaches half way over East Twenty-seventh-st. This contains 142 stalls and loose boxes, each of which is amply provided with clean fragrant straw, whilel an effort at decoration has been made by tying sheaves of straw to the ends of the partitions with red and blue ribbons. The telegraph poles and lampposts, which have an odd, out-of-the-way look, are treated in the same way. At the east end of the building there are some capacious loose boxes, in which the specially time and valuable exhibits will find quarters. Facing the exhibition ring is a large stall for the reception of the fire-engines and teams, which will give, in turn, three exhibitions a day for a prize to be awarded to the company making the quickest time. On the north side is a space devoted to the exhibition of whips, harness and other accessories. John, G. Heekscher was seen into yesterday afternoon by a Tranture reporter. "Nothing," said he, "could be more satisfactory. Everything is in apple-pie order, and though only half a dozen of the exhibitis have as yet arrived we are ready for the whole of them, if they want to come. We are agreeably disappointed, not only as to the quantity, but also as to the quality of the exhibition will compare favorably with any in the world that has been held hitherto. We have added some most attractive features, not the least of which will be the fire-engine competition. The prize is a handsome set of harness. We offered a library of books, but the men thought that as the horses were to win the prize the horses ought to have it."

FEARS FOR THE POLICE PENSION FUND.

The Police Commissioners have submitted to the Mayor their report of the operations of the force for the quarter ending September 30. The entire force numbers 2,746. The number of persons arrested was 17,496. Lodgings were furnished to 5,360 men and 14,054 women, a total of 19,414. There were 1,238 lost children recovered. The police pension fund is not in good condition. The capital of the fund on January 1, 1883, was $270,768 78. Up to October 1, 1883, the receipts from various sources were $80,839 34. The expenditures, including over $77,000 for judgments recovered by policemen on account of deductions made for loss of time, were nearly $180,000. This rendered necessary the sale of $102,000 bonds, a part of the capital of the fund. There remains now only $163,994 54 as the capital of the fund as compared with $270,768 78 at the beginning of the year. The commissioners say that unless there is speedy legislation with a view to replenishing and preserving the pension fund, its extinction must result. The pensions paid for the quarter ending September 30 amounted to FEARS FOR THE POLICE PENSION FUND. view to replenishing and preserving the pension fund, its extinction must result. The pensions paid for the quarter ending September 30 amounted to $17,517-25. Assuming that the average quarterly payments of pensions will be about the same and that the receipts will continue in the same ratio, the pension fund will be exhausted in less than eighteen months from October 1. There are 225 men, 165 widows, and 22 orphans on the roll. The Board of Police request the earnest co-operation of the Mayor and other authorities in order that proper measures may be taken without delay to replenish and preserve the fund and protect its dependents.

CHARGED WITH DELAYING STREET CARS. CHARGED WITH DELAYING STREET CARS.

President Lyon and Superintendent Robertson, of the Third Avenue Railroad Company, in the Yorkville Poice Court yesterday, applied for a warrant for the arrest of G. H. Lambert, an officer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, on a charge of wilfully obstructing the road and delaying the cars of the company on October 11. Daniel Coleman, a driver, made an affidavit that the accused man ordered him to detach one of the horses from car No. 59 and take the animal to Twentysecond-st. and Forth-ave, where it was examined by some one who came out of the Society's rooms there, and who ordered him to take the animal to the deport. Two veterinary surgeons made affidavits that the animal was strong and well able to perform his work, the only trouble being an abrasion on the hind leg, where the animal rubbed its legs together, and which was protected, the driver said. The question will be argued next Saturday.

PRODUCE EXCHANGE BUILDING FUNDS.

A meeting of the members of the Produce Exchange will be held to-morrow to receive the report of the special committee which has been considering the advisability of starting new land telegraph lines and an ocean cable for commercial service. It will also consider the report of the Finance Committee relative to raising funds for the completion of the new Produce Exchange building. The amount required, according to the Building Committee's report, was $446,319; the estimate of what is required over and above the contracts is $107,500, a total of $553,819. Against this are: Cash in hand, $7,119; a loan from the Corn Exchange bank, $125,000, and due from the Bowery Savings bank, $150,000—a total of $282,119—leaving $271,700 as the amount required to finish the building according to the plans and specifications. The assets against these figures are: The equity in the old Exchange, mortgaged for $125,000, and the equity in No. 9 Stone-st., on which the mortgage is not due, $10,000. The crowd made way in respectful silence, the door of the dead-room opened and they were admitted. The minutes later Counsellor William F. Kintzing and the Rev. Dr. Guilbert arrived, and were admitted. The Zuni Indians are said to have invented the clarette. We begin to believe that there is indeed in Good Indian but a dead Indian.—[Boston Transcript.]

Dr. Guilbert began to rend the selemn burial service of the Episcopal Charch. After the service was finished the relatives of the dead man walked to the One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth-st, station of the Harlem Railroad. The body was carried to the same place just in time to catch the 16:35 train to Woodlawn, where the body was buried in the same plot in which Mrs. Hovey lies. Only the family went to Woodlawn.

TO PROTECT INVENTORS' RIGHTS.

A national convention of inventors and owners of inventions is to be held in Lyric Hall, 6th-ave, and 42d-st., to-morrow and Tuesday to form an Inventors' Protective Association. The movement was started by a committee of New-York inventors, which issued a call through the secretary, M. A. Forbes, to inventors generally. This has been largely responded to, and many preminent inventors will be present. The Commissioner of Patents is expected to attend. Measures will be discussed which will better secure to inventors their legal rights, and protect them more faily against infringement; the establishing of a board of scientific and legal experts for the examination of inventions as to their utility and legality, and to secure the introduction of inventions to the public by the cooperation of capital; the maintaining of a library of authoritative works, including the latest publications of this and other countries upon the subject of patents, where all information may be readily and economically obtained by the inventor on subjects relating to his interests—a matter now attended with great expense and difficulty; and for a united resistance to the encroachment of combinations now, it is alleged, being made upon the rights and privileges of patentees and the owners of patents. A national charter is to be obtained

"It is a remarkable circumstance," says the secticary of the committee, "that although there are 150,000 inventors in the United States whose interests are in almost constant jooparily, no effort has ever before been made by them to combine for the protection of those interests. It is not generally known, but it is a fact, that the railroads, the grangers, the mill-owners, and other large manufacturing companies, although at enmity with one another as to other interests, are united in their opposition to the patent laws, and in the sentiment that there should be no property rights in patents. These great interests have formed a combination, the object of which is to legalize TO PROTECT INVENTORS' RIGHTS.

AFTER THE NEWBURG CENTENNIAL.

AFTER THE NEWBURG CENTENNIAL.

The Passenger Department at the Grand Central Depot on Friday rubbed its hands together as one man. "We handled about 25,000 people on Thursday going to and from the Newburg celebration, without a single accident," remarked E. J. Richards, assistant general passenger agent, "There was very little delay in the trains, too," Seventh Regiment members were annoyed on Wednesday at the separation of the Veteran Corps from the rest of the organization which went by the New-York Central and renched Fishkill on time. The Veteran Corps went by the West Shore and was about five hours on the road. The 7th Regiment was kept waiting fifty minutes at Fishkill because of the deficient facilities of the Newburg Ferry Company. A story is told how the sen of Houer Ramsdell tried to keep the slip against the regiment. Colonel Clark was determined to have no such delay on returning as was experienced in the morning. In the evening, promptly on time, the regiment came down to the ferry in column of fours, marching at double-quick step. Young Mr. Ramsdell placed himself in front of the troops, saying: "You must wait until the people get on board." "Shoo fly!" responded Sergeant McLewee, of Company C. as he brushed the obstruction aside with one arm, and the regiment swept on the ferry beat like a tornado.

PRESIDENT HYDE AND THE MEXICAN LOAN. PRESIDENT HYDE AND THE MEALCAS LOAN.
Vice-President Alexander, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, expressed the opinion that the recent dispatch from Mexico, connecting President Hyde's name with a new Mexican loan, was an error. "I should deny the truth of the report positively." Mr. Alexander said, "but for the fact that I have not seen Mr. Hyde for some time. I do not know certainly what negotiations he may have enknow certainly what negotiations he may have entered upon during his visit to Europe, but I feel sure that if he was doing anything of this kind I should have been informed of it. The published dispatch is the first that I have heard of the matter. The company does a life insurance business in Mexico, but to negotiate a loan is not within its natural province; I am sure that the dispatch is utterly without foundation."

H. K. Thurber, of the firm of H. K. & F. B. Thur-er, returned from Washington on Friday and com-unicated to Collector Robertson the substance of he decision of Secretary Folger, with regard to th porters. Mr. Thurber stated that Secretary rough had decided that the boxes were not only necessary in the transportation of the matches, but that they did not form the basis for a dutiable estimate, and appraisal thereof. The Collector will get an official copy of the decision when the bonds given by the Thurbers for the payment of duties on the matches imported since July 1, amounting to about $20,000, will be released.

THE BRICK CHURCH. NEWBY DECORATED IN THE BYZANTINE STYLE-VE-

NETIAN LANTERNS.

During the summer the Brick Presby terian Church on Fifth-ave. and Thirty-seventh st, has been undergoing general repairs and improvement. The interior has been entirely renewed. The organ has been taken from back of the pulpit and placed in the front portion of the buildconsties and ventilation have been greatly improved. A new system of decoration of a Byzantine type, dating rom the first centuries, much used by early Christians i their basilicas, has been introduced. Old gold, purple and dark blue colors predominate. A cornice tweive feet deep runs around the audience room, filled with rich mosales. The symbols used are all taken from the New Testament, the vine, the point, the dove and the golden candle-stels. Beneath the cornice is inscribed in Roman characters on the four, sides of the charch "Let the people praise Thee, Oh God!" Around the galler and back of the pulpit runs another line of rich mosates, while the stained glass of the windows is wrought into an architectural design in harmony with the general decoration. The pulpit will be hing with tape-stry. The great chandeler that used to light the building has been replaced by four least lanterns of a Venetian pattern, and semi-circles set in the wall with stained glass shades.

The work has been in the charge of a committee of the church but under the direction of John Lat Farge. The pastor, the fiew Jienry J. Von Dyke, in., said the other day in speaking of the decorations: "The purpose was to make the church as beautiful as possible, and to use in its decoration those Christian symbols that are hallowed to the work will not be completed to permit the church to be

A MUSIC TEACHER ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Candido Berti, a music teacher and pianist, ras taken to Bellevue Hospital as a prisoner yesterday afternoop, charged with attempting to commit suicide He had jumped from the roof of the story building No. 243 East Thirtieth-st., and landing in a rear yard had broken his ankle and sustained severe internal injuries. Mr. Berti is fifty years old, born in this city, his father being an Italian and his mother a native of the West Indies. The father has been dead many years, but the mother was married recently for a third time, and she lives at No. 237 East Thirtleth-st. Mr. Berti was educated in Europe and was a pupil of Thalberg. In this city be has given musical instruction to the members of many wealthy families. He lived for some years in Fourieenth-st., and took a great interest in the education of a girl who lived in the same house. She was his pupil for about thirteen house. She was his pupil for about thirteen years. Their affection for each other became so pronounced that they were engaged to be married some months ago, although his age is more than double her own. The engagement was broken recently, and Mr. Bertie, a few weeks ago, began to exhibit symptoms of insanity. Yesterday he left his boarding place, at No. 222 West Thirty-fourth-st., and went to his mother's house. After conversing for some time with his stepfather, he went up to the roof and walked about there. His stepfather went up after a short interval to see what he was doing. Mr. Berti suddenly began to run from one roof to the other crying: "They are after me!" A clothesline broke his fall enough to save his life. It was thought by his relatives that he did not intend to kill himself. They refused to tell the name of the young woman whom he wanted to marry.

The Hudson County Grand Jury, accompanied by members of the Board of Pablie Works of Jersey City and Chief-Engineer Sites, made a visit of inspection to the Passaic River on Friday. They found that nearly all the main sewers of Newark emptied into the river, and that the tide carried the sewage some distance above the pumping station at Belleville, whence it is pumped into mains by which Jersey City is supplied. It is probable that the Grand Jury will ladiet the city of Newark for maintaining a nuisance.

The defendant's counsel yesterday, in the supreme Court, Special Term, moved to dismiss the case for want of prosecution. Kenney's counsel answered that the case was delayed on account of the trial of the plaintiff's brother for murder, and he feared it would prejudice his own case. The Court directed the plaintiff to pay $10 costs, and put the case on the calendar within ten days.

Returning from a hunt on Hempstead Plains in the month of June, a groom in the employ of Plains in the month of June, a groom in the employ of Mr. B elmont ran over and severely injured a young son of Mr. Tower. After the boy had recovered from his injuries, Mr. Tower presented to Mr. Belmont the physician's bill of $30 for settlement. FOOTBALL IN THE RAIN.

In spite of the weather quite a crowd assembled on the St. George Cricket Grounds in Hoboken yes-terday afternoon to witness the football match between the Harvard College and Stevens Institute teams. The rass was slippery, and it was amusing to see the college ads slip as they can to make a goal. There was the usual lads slip as they ran to make a goal. There was the usual amount of tumbling, and the "half-backs" had their hands full in trying to retain the ball. The game was hotly contested, and resulted in a victory for the Harvard team by two goals and one touchdown to Stevene's two touchdowns. W. Lawson, of Columbia College, was referee, and B. Appleton was captain of the Harvard team, while Klatch led the Stevene's men. Time of game, one hour and a half. Now that the Harvard men have defeated the Stevene Institute, they stand an excellent chance for the championship, and it is expected by college men that Harvard will carry off the honors of the season.

SCANDALOUS DEPOSITIONS SUPPRESSED. Judge Wallace yesterday heard argument on motion made by Commissioner J.M. Deuel, the piaintiff's ounsel, to suppress certain depositions taken in Paris by ommission on behalf of the defendant in the action of Caroline J. Liejoise against John McCracken, of this city. The suit was begun two or three years ago in the United States Circuit Court to recover $13.911 70 for alleged reach of contract Miss Liejotse, in her original co plaint, charged that while she was a teacher of French in Los Angeles, Cal., she met the defendant, who in 1877 betrayed her. She afterward met the defendant in Hartford, Conn., and in August, 1878, she says, he made a contract to pay her $10,000. This agreement was afterward changed to one by which she was to receive $500 and her expenses for dress each year. This agreement and her expenses for dress each year. This agreement the plaintiff alleges was carried out for one year, but the defendant has since refused to make further payments. In the course of the litigation the defendant's counsel applied for and received an order to take testimony by commission in Paris, France. One of the depositions taken was that of Tin Tun Lang, a Chinese professor, said to be connected with the Chinese Embassy at Paris. It alleged that a marriage ceremony was performed between the plaintiff and the professor, sithough the latter did not consider the ceremony binding. It also made other allegations as to the relations existing between the plaintiff and Tin Tun Lang, which Mr. Denoi declared to be scandalous. He also objected to the deposition of Tin Tun Lang and his Chinese wife on the ground that they did not understand the questions put to them, and for other reasons. Judge Wallace immediately granted an order for the suppression of the depositions. Scandalous. He also objected to the deposition of Tin Tan Lung and his Chinese wife on the ground that they did not understand the questions put to them, and for other reasons.
